

BATTUE

WALLS OF TAR SOS

Clad in purple, with an olive branch around his head, Senator Antonius appeared as calm as if he had been standing in the forum back in Romulus addressing his civilized peers, not in the center of a blood-soaked street where men and women fought to the death all around him. The intent was obvious, if the language was unclear. Senator Antonius was attempting to lobby with the woman on horseback, as if such entreaties would have any effect. The Horse Lord leader, for there was no doubt in his mind she was a ranking member of the invaders, sat at ease atop her war horse. Despite the struggles going on around the two, they both remained untouched. The Senator's tiny entourage of attendants and guards remained aloof from the fighting.

Suddenly, the woman exploded into motion, lancing the legionnaire to the senator's right before any could move. At that the rest of the Horse Lords moved in unison attacking the small band until only the senator remained standing. His hands were still raised in appeal when a warrior locked an iron collar around his neck and handed the collar's chain to the barbarian woman.

Product Description

Battue: Walls of Tarsos is an expansion for Battue: Storm of the Horse Lords. Inside are additional components that make the game even more challenging. The rules of Battue remain the same – but now you have new obstacles to overcome, new tactics to employ, and new rewards to capture on your quest for total victory.

Battue: Walls of Tarsos requires Battue: Storm of the Horse Lords to play.

Features

- Updated setup rules.
- Reaction Loot cards to keep your opponents guessing.
- Independent Hordes, which may arise to free previously captured city tiles.
- Conditional Loot cards that can be played for extra victory points, but only under the correct conditions.
- Secret Entrances into the city.
- Each Tower tile has a unique ability if captured – Spy Glass, Signal Fire, Enchanted Sextant, and Ballista.
- New abilities for Interior tiles.
